Depression

Depression is one of the top three causes of disability affecting 5 per cent of the population at any one time. With 80 per cent of people identified as having depression managed entirely in a primary care setting – the average GP will see at least one patient with depression during each surgery session.

The Escro Depression module provides a comprehensive method of recording each stage of a patient's treatment based on recognised clinical pathways tailored to accommodate local delivery plans.

18/04/2008	1st management plan

Based on a register of patients being actively treated under the Depression Enhanced Service, practices can easily monitor the current status of each patient during their cycle of treatment, in addition to overall status of their depression register.

Key indicators are included in monthly submission files allowing health boards to quickly collate regional totals and trends enabling close monitoring of budgets during the financial year.

Locally defined criteria ensures that only fully qualified claims are submitted for payment and as the claims are generated directly from the patient's clinical record, a full audit trail is available linking every payment to a patient.
